The next day, Tim comes home from work to find his son, Axel Poly, waiting for him at the door. Tim thinks him as the client, discovers that his hands are covered with jabs, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tim calls out fearfully, "Look behind you" and when Axel Poly turns, Tim escapes over the fence. After Tim is gone, Axel Poly walks outside on Tim's shoulder and here the little boy gets away with his work.

Tim comes home at night to find his son, Axel Poly, waiting for him. Tim calls out fearfully, "Look behind you" and when Axel Poly turns, Tim escapes over the fence. After Tim is gone, Axel Poly walks outside on Tim's shoulder and here the little boy gets away with his work.

Tim goes out of the house on Saturday morning, leaving the streets of St. Petersburg. He meets his son, Axel Poly, and the two travel on horseback to the village where Tim's wife, Anna, has been working all day.

When he arrives home in the evening, Tim finds Axel Poly waiting for him. The master has dressed clothes and decides to make his work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Axel Poly sends Tim out to whitewash the fence. Tim goes by, and Tim tries to get Tim to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white collar," a kind of mantle. Tim doesn't agree, but Axel Poly agrees and leaves him off, leaving Tim alone with his tasks.

The next day, Timmy comes to the house to work on his neighbor, Tim. Timmy thinks Tim is the client, discovers that his hands are covered with jabs, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tim says not fearfully, "Look behind you," and when Axel Poly comes, Tim escapes over the fence. After Tim is gone, Axel Poly walks outside on Tim's shoulder and tells the little boy get away with his work.

Tim comes home at night, exhausted from working on the house. During sunset, Axel Poly comes to the house and asks Tim if he wants to go to the office or still work here. Tim says he wants to go to the office, but Axel Poly says he has to stay here. Tim's half brother, Axel Poly, says he has to stay here because he has to protect himself from dangerous things.

Tim goes out of the house to walk around the neighborhood, walking the streets of St. Petersburg. He sees a man who looks like Tim and the same colored hair. Tim follows him and eventually catches the man across all the way home.

When he arrives home in the evening, Tim finds Axel Poly waiting for him. The master has stolen clothes and makes Tim make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Axel Poly sends Tim out to whitewash the fence. Tim goes by, and Tim tries to get Tim to do some of the whitewashing to earn the "white collar," a kind of master. Tim doesn't agree, but Axel Poly appears and drives him off, leaving Tim alone with his tasks.
