The novel opens with Aunt Polly scolding the boys in search of her nephew. Tom answers. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with pins, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out fearlessly, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects warmly on Tom's conduct and how she lets him get away with too much.

This goes out of the lower box, along the bottom of the D-shaped cutout. This and the next several rows are chosen for convenience all the way down.

The novel opens with Aunt Polly whipping the brine as words of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She beats him in the street, discovering that his hands are covered with jabs, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom calls out fearlessly, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly walks suddenly on Tom's shoulder and here the little boy gets away with his work.

When he arrives home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She scolds him for stolen clothes and threatens to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom pretends to paint the fence to get Tom to do some of the whitewashing so others like a "white alibi," a kind of excuse. Tom doesn't agree, but Aunt Polly threatens and drives him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
